the Orange County Commission Chambers. Because of the number of residents that reside on the East Side of Orange County, a meeting held on the border between Commission Districts 4 and 5 was also held to solicit public input from this area of the County. Pursuant to Section 702 of the Charter, the 2008 CRC was required to hold no less than four public hearings prior to presenting proposed Charter revisions and amendments to the public. Attached as Appendix A is a table of the 2008 CRC Meetings and Public Hearings held during this process.

In addition, to the public hearings, the 2008 CRC provided an opportunity for public input at each of its regularly scheduled Commission meetings. Throughout the process, the 2008 CRC heard testimony from members of the public, representatives of various civic groups such as the League of Women Voters, County Watch, Orange County Homeowner's Association, and Business Force and from a number of elected officials including each of Orange County's constitutional officers: Sheriff Kevin Beary, Supervisor of Elections Bill Cowles, Property Appraiser Bill Donegan, Clerk of Courts Lydia Gardner, Comptroller Martha Haynie and Tax Collector Earl K. Wood.

SECTION III

PROPOSED CHARTER AMENDMENT CONCEPTS

The 2008 CRC heard from a number of different elected officials and members of the public who recommended or suggested a variety of charter amendment concepts. Each was assigned to a Charter commission member for further research and evaluation. This section contains a summary of each of those proposals along with the final action taken on each measure by the 2008 CRC.

A. Article II Proposals

1. Increase in the Number of County Commissioners

Proposal Summary: One of the first proposals reviewed by the 2008 CRC was a proposal to increase the number of County Commissioners from six (6) to seven (7) or eight (8) to accommodate for increases in Orange County's population. CRC Chairman Richard Morrison agreed to research this issue and conducted independent research on this topic. Chairman Morrison's findings were that the current board structure was consistent with other similarly situated counties throughout the state and the country. The proposal would have required the amendment of Sections 202, 203 and 204 of the Charter.
